Key Insights

- Price started increasing exponentially in 2015 and has remained on an upward trend
- Adamawa has the highest average price(12,573) followed closely by Kebbi. While this fluctuates by years, the cumulative value may be influenced by the number of commodities records in the states(17 each). Jigawa on the other hand is on the lower spectrum in terms of price despite the relatively high number of commodities (19) while Sokoto which has just 4 commodities has the least price (217)
- The number of wholesalers is a lot higher than the number of retails over the years, however, the degree of difference differs by year
- Groundnut(shelled), followed by Rice(Local) has the highest prices cumulatively over the years, this value varies largely when drilled down by state and year.
